

In part 2 of our Artist Interview with guitar legend Steve Vai, GJD's Ken Volpe continues to riff with Steve on Jimmy Page's artistry and his creative output these days. Steve talks about the creative "urge" that artists (like Jimmy Page) have and how life situations affect creativity. Steve goes on and offers insights on how he personally deals with creative urges and the dry spells as an artist. Next, you'll hear how the guitar itself plays a major role in the creative process for him. And for the last part of the session, Ken asks Steve if he still listens to his older records and how he feels when listening to them.
