

Earlier in the year, when the legendary Albert Lee was due to perform exclusively at the Institute, he unfortunately broke his arm. Now fully recovered and rarin' to go, Musicman endorsee Albert has confirmed he's back to his best and will be giving an exclusive Masterclass on July 6th during the Institute's Country Weekend.

Participants on this 2-day programme will learn new tips, tricks and skills in classes and workshops with the Institute's very own country guitar experts Lee Hodgson, Dario Cortese and Andy Saphir. And there will be plenty of opportunity to put the learning straight into practice in live band workshops and jam sessions in some of the best teaching and performing facilities in London.

Albert will be joining the second day of the program on Sunday 6th July, for an exclusive, personalized masterclass - an opportunity to get up close and personal to a real legend!

The weekend is aimed at intermediate-level players who love country guitar. Don't miss this unique chance to jam and play with like-minded players whilst learning from one of the masters and originators of the hot country genre.

Course dates are July 5th & 6th .

Press Release

Source: ICMP